

BETH EL HABONIM presents its annual

Lu-Love Sukkot Supper

with Guest Speaker LAYA MARTINEZ

Tuesday, October 22 from 6:00 - 8:30pm

An inspiring evening with Laya Martinez, author of the deeply moving memoir When Your Family Says No: The Journey To Freedom, Independence, and Happiness.

Laya Martinez was the fourth daughter of a prominent orthodox Jewish family. She was expected to follow tradition; school, engagement, marriage and babies. She pretty much did that - but not in the "right" way. Her story is about choice and the complexity of falling in love and how desire cannot be stopped by the confines of rigid family and rabbinical rules.

Laya initially studied at Yeshiva University. She began working in the world of computers and became one of MasterCharge's first female programmers. She went on to found two successful data processing companies.

Laya has three grown children and works in Philadelphia where she resides with her husband.

Book signing will be available that evening.

Cost for dinner: $29 per person. RSVP and payment due by Monday, October 14.
